

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A digital camera having a public key encryption system to establish the authenticity of digital images created by the camera, wherein the private key/public key pair is produced within the digital camera using an algorithm

5 which ensures that it is unique, rather than being produced on a separate computer and uploaded to the camera. The private key is stored in a memory within the digital camera, so that it cannot be discovered.